Biography

Perrine Honoré is a multidisciplinary artist based in Barcelona. She studied fashion in Sweden, graphic design in Paris, and communication in Barcelona.

She works in several fields, including street art, textile design, and art direction. These projects have led her to travel to various European countries to paint and exhibit over recent years.

Her paintings elevate her creative world in a compelling and stimulating way. It is through this medium that she expresses herself most freely.

Perrine is interested in the profound relationship between light and color, two essential elements of her artistic expression. Through their interaction, she seeks to communicate her emotions.

« I explore the transformative power of color and light to express emotion and inner resilience. My work invites viewers to experience feeling over form, turning each canvas into a visual meditation. »

12 months, 12 me

AN ABSTRACT METAMORPHOSIS TOLD THROUGH COLORS

1 year is 12 months, and 7 days out of 7.

The exploration of my inner world bursts in without warning,
Who could have foreseen such a turning?
My body demands a pause, now, this very moment!
Tears keep falling, endlessly flowing,
I have no choice, I must keep going.

The darkness is dense, the distress intense.
I cry, I sleep, wrapped in a deep silence.

I struggle to find a trace of light,
I paint the colors that help me heal,
They soothe me so deeply, I need what they reveal.
They appear and guide my hands; they are pure emotion.

Through the passing seasons I gather patience,
I learn again to trust my own resilience.

The paintings vibrate and gather in my little studio space,
They are the vital impulse that brings back my embrace,
My will to live.

I am alive!

Twelve months immersed, where transformation
Becomes a place for expression, a visual opening
Toward a spiritual connection.

This series retraces a difficult year that gave birth
To an abstract and visceral painting.
Through it I reclaimed the temporality and the narrative
Of my own lived experience, opening dialogue and lifting the taboos surrounding mental health, and more precisely depression,
A condition universally encountered
And yet so often left unspoken.

Each work marks a powerful moment in this metamorphosis.
The colors that radiate from them bear witness
To that vital force that bursts forth, even when we believe it gone,
And that allows us to keep moving forward.
